Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed on July 5, 2006 with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

The indicated allowability of claim 9 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered references to Mori et al. and North et al. Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

> A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –
> (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-7 and 10-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent 6,599,891 to North et al. North et al. teach a method for treating macular edemas using light with a wavelength between 550 and 695 nanometers (Col. 25, line 29) with a fluence from 1-50 J/cm^2 (Col. 4, line 41). The light may be provided by LEDs (Col. 3, line 16). 50 mW/cm^2 for 166 seconds is specifically disclosed (Col. 25, lines 10-12). The method may be repeated up to four times (Col. 26, line 51) based on observation of results.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 8-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent 6,599,891 to North et al. as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Rosner et al., "Dose and Temporal Parameters in Delaying Injured Optic Nerve Degeneration by Low-energy Laser Irradiation," Laser Surgery Med. 13:61 1-617, 1993. North et al. are discussed above, but do not teach 24-hour intervals between treatments. Rosner et al. teach the use of low energy laser radiation to delay the degeneration of injured optic nerves. The wavelength of the He-Ne laser is 632.8 nanometers and the treatments are disclosed as once a day (every 24 hours) for 14 consecutive days (abstract). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the treatment intervals as taught by Rosner et al. in the methods of North et al. as both are treating related injury or damage. While neither North et al. nor Rosner et al. teach multiple treatments in a day, it is considered obvious that a skilled artesian would determine the appropriate interval based on knowledge since the applicant's disclosure does not place any criticality on the interval and indicates a wide range from several times per day to weekly treatments. It is proper to take into consideration not only the teachings of the prior art, but also the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Luck, 476 F.2d 650, 177 USPQ

523 (CCPA 1973). Specifically, those of ordinary skill in the art are presumed to have some knowledge of the art apart from what is expressly disclosed in the references. In re Jacoby, 309 F.2d 513, 135 USPQ 317 (CCPA 1962).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. U.S. Patent 6,984,655 teaches radiation of an eye with times, wavelengths and fluences as claimed by the applicant.
